

HON. GEO. W. CASSIDY.

His death was sudden and cut short a life devoted to the people. He was in more ways than one an honest and conscientious man. When the West was in its infancy he struggled with other tireless workers to build it up, and always had undying faith in its final elevation to an advanced stage of civilization.

In 1879 he went to Congress from Nevada and worked for his constituents two terms defeating Rollin M. Daggett and C. C. Powning. After going out of office he was appointed Bank Inspector for the Pacific coast under Cleveland's administration and held the office for four years. He then ran for Congress again and was defeated by Wm. Woodburn who went to Congress two terms. Then again by H. F. Bartine our present Congressman who defeated him twice. This puts him before the people for that office five times. He has also represented Eureka county in the Senate and Assembly of this State at various sessions of the Legislature and was the original mover in securing our Government building, which is one of the many monuments of his fidelity to the State.

For a number of years he has ably edited the Eureka Sentinel and was also its proprietor. He was about 55 years of age and died in the midst of a fight to right the wrongs of 1873.

POLITICAL PLEDGES.

Objections are being made by the Republican and Democratic machine men to the pledge exacted of Silver League members. One unaccustomed to the tactics of the regular politicians would suppose from what they say that the Silver League had made an innovation for which there is no precedent. The facts, however, prove the contrary. At the Republican primaries held last April for the election of delegates to the State Convention, each and every person voting pledged himself to support the nominees of the Republican party. At the Democratic primaries a similar pledge was exacted of those who voted. That has been the custom with all parties and no doubt will continue to be while people continue to divide politically. If such precautions were not adopted organization could not be maintained. Without a pledge Democrats might control Republican meetings and conventions, and Republicans or Anarchists might assume the management of the convention now being held at Chicago, or Wall street men if there are enough of them in the community, might undertake to conduct the affairs of the convention which is to meet here tomorrow. Every society, whether religious, civic or political, has pledges which bind the members together and those who object to the Silver League because it exacts a pledge from its members, have the same cause for complaint against every organization in the United States.

If there be valid reasons why a person professing to favor the full monetization of silver, that our deserted mining camps may be repopulated and prosperity restored to the State, should not pledge himself to support no candidate for legislative or executive office, who is not pledged by platform and declaration to the free and unlimited coinage of silver, neither the Wall street organs nor agents have made them public.—Journal.

Judge Catlin of this city, says the Sacramento News, recently made a remark that has attracted considerable attention in this State. He gave it as his opinion that the affection of the father for children is stronger than the affection of the mother. He acknowledged that this is not the orthodox view, but insisted that he is led to that belief by what he has seen. He said the mother is usually more demonstrative, but that the affection of the father is more deep-seated, more lasting and more sincere. There are historical precedents to sustain Judge Catlin, though the preponderance of authorities may be regarded as the other way. Popular opinion certainly goes in favor of the mother. Song writers are constantly warbling about maternal endearments and beauties while few ballads mention the paternal part of the family circle, unless it is to say "Father Dear Father Come Home With Me Now" or "The Old Man's Drunk Again."

Benton's Liniment.

Which has been used in Carson for over twenty-five years, has saved many an ache and pain to those who know it. It is really intended for horses but works with the same magical effect on the human. It is a powerful remedy and for rheumatism is the king of the world. Aches knocked out in short order. No horseman should be without a bottle.

Benton's Liniment for sale at all drug stores.

Gibraltar.

This famous stallion will stand for the season at the ranch of John Sweeney near Carson City. Gibraltar is the sire of Homestake whose record two years ago was 2:14 1/2.
